UNDERGRADUATE AWARDS CONFERRED UPON HONOR MEN BY FATHER CANNING

HIGINBOTHOM LEADS JR.

Father Rector Urges All
Students To Emulate
Work Of Winners

The award of undergraduate honors for the scholastic year 1934-35 took place in the Jenkins Library on September 23 immediately after the Mass of the Holy Ghost. Father Joseph A. Canning, S.J., President of Loyola, after conferring the honors which were read off by Dean Thomas I. O'Malley, congratulated the recipients and in a short talk urged the students to emulate during the ensuing year the good work of the honor men.

The awards were as follows:

The Myers Gold Medal for Philosophy—Junior Year—John B. Higinbothom.

Next in Merit—John J. Dinan.

The McTavish Gold Medal for Physics—Junior Year—John B. Higinbothom.

Next in Merit—John J. Dinan.

The Murphy Gold Medal for Evidence of Religion—Junior Year—John B. Higinbothom.

Next in Merit—John J. Dinan.

The McNeal Gold Medal for Inorganic Chemistry—William F. Malooly.

Next in Merit—Richard A. Carey.

The Carrell Silver Medal for English—Sophomore Year—James L. Martin.

Next in Merit—C. Carroll Murphy.

The Premium for History—William J. O'Donnell.

Freshman Takes Second Place In State-Wide Poetry Contest

The summer vacation apparently did not cool some of the students' ardor for their textbooks. Several freshmen of last year's class entered a contest which consisted of rhyming, correct meter and a good poetic translation of Horace's Ode IX, book 3. The contest was nation-wide, its aim was to select the best version of the renowned poet's work.

Among the several papers that were submitted to the local unit at Goucher College, that of Joseph H. Grady, '38, was selected as second best in the State of Maryland. Mr. Grady's ambition now is to receive word from the national committee of judges that he has been placed among the nation's best students of the Friday, September 27, marked the twenty-fifth anniversary of the ordination to the priesthood of two distinguished alumni of Loyola. They are the Most Reverend Thomas J. Toolen, Bishop of Mobile, and the Reverend Dr. John I. Barrett, Superintendent of Education in the Archdiocese of Baltimore. Bishop Toolen and Dr. Barrett were graduates of the class of 1905, and were ordained together by the late Cardinal Gibbons in the Baltimore Cathedral September 25, 1910.

FR. CONNELL, PROV. PREFECT- GENERAL, DIES DURING SUMMER

WAS LOYOLA EX '35

The Reverend Francis M. Connell, S.J., graduate of Loyola High school and former student of Loyola College, died during the past summer in St. Vincent's Hospital, New York, of heart failure. He was in his sixty-ninth year.

Attended Loyola

Father Connell was a native of Baltimore and graduated from the High School in 1881. He then attended Loyola College for one year only, for in August, 1882, he entered the Jesuit order and was ordained by Cardinal Gibbons in 1898.

Returning to Baltimore in 1920, Father Connell was appointed Prefect of Studies of both Loyola High School and College. The following year he was transferred to St. Andrew's-on-the-Hudson, and a year later was made Prefect-general of studies for the Maryland-New York Province. The post was created in that year and he was the first to fill it.

Since his appointment, Father Connell has made annual visits to Loyola College, and his last visit took place in April, 1935.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION DIRECTORS HOLD FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

PLANS MADE FOR FUTURE

The first annual meeting of the board of directors of the Alumni Association of Loyola College was held on Monday evening, September 16 at the Alumni office in the Science Building. The purpose of the meeting was to make plans for the coming year.

Election of Officers

With the time for electing officers approaching once more, the first concern of the members present was to set a date on which to hold the elections.

It was decided to hold the elections on Tuesday evening, October 8, at Evergreen. Mr. Clarence J. Caulfield, '22, was selected to be chairman of the meeting, and in order to be prepared for the elections, a nominating committee was also appointed.

It was also announced at the meeting that the memorial chalice now being made in honor of the late Father Justin J. Ooghe, S.J., former professor of Philosophy at Loyola, was near completion. The members present suggested that a memorial Mass be celebrated at the time the chalice was presented.

Seniors Invited

In order to interest coming graduates in the Alumni Association, the present senior class will be invited to attend in a body. Another point particularly stressed was the desire to have the entire faculty present at the meeting. It is hoped that by doing this the faculty and alumni may become better acquainted. Mr. George Renehan, '18, president of the association, said that brief addresses by the faculty would be welcomed. It is expected that if the faculty and the alumni are present at one meeting, they will be able to express opinions and suggestions that will tend to bring the alumni into a closer union with the college, and the faculty into a better acquaintanceship with the alumni.

The directors present at the meeting were:—Dr. Edward A. Doehler, '30; Thomas J. Grogan, '29; Francis X. McCormick, '30; Dr. Francis K. Morris, '23; J. A. O'Shea, '25; George Renehan, '18; W. A. Sehlhorst, '17; John R. Spellissy, '27; Edward Storck, Jr., '32; and the Rev. Thomas J. Love, S.J., moderator of the association.

History

When the students returned to Loyola they found a few changes in the Faculty and courses at the College. Father John A. Frisch, S.J., who was head of the Biology Department at Loyola for several years, had been transferred to Canisius College where he assumed a similar post. Father Joseph S. Didusch, S.J., a graduate of Loyola College in '98, has replaced Father Frisch as director of the Loyola Biology Department. Father Didusch was formerly Rector at the Wernersville Novitiate. This marks the return of Father Didusch in this capacity, for he held this office in 1930 before going to Wernersville.

Father Raymond H. Anable, S.J., went to St. Andrews-on-the-Hudson for his tertian.

MR. FRANK J. SHEED LECTURES BEFORE GROUP AT EVERGREEN

CATHOLIC DOCTRINE TOPIC

Mr. Frank J. Sheed, well known English lecturer and publisher, and active member of the Catholic Evidence Guild, lectured on Tuesday Evening, September 24 in the Jenkins Library at Evergreen on "The Doctrines of the Catholic Church."

He began his talk by explaining that one factor which distinguishes the doctrine of the Catholic Church from the doctrines of other churches is the way in which all the Catholic doctrines are linked together.

"While other churches may accept or reject various doctrines, the Catholic Church, aside from God's command, must accept all the doctrines in order to have a logical succession," he said.

The guildsman treated particularly of heaven, and spoke at length on the doctrine of the supernatural life, explaining that no one can live in heaven with only natural life, but must possess supernatural life, which is the instrument which gives us the power to live in heaven.

"If we wanted to go to some planet," he said "for in-

MASS OF HOLY GHOST OPENS CURRENT SCHOOL YEAR FOR LOYOLANS

FR. CANNING, CELEBRANT

"Leaders In Catholic Action
Must Come From Colleges,"
Says Father Gillis

On Monday morning September 23, the school year was officially opened by the Mass of the Holy Ghost which was celebrated by the Rev. Joseph A. Canning, S.J., President of the College, in the Chapel of St. Francis Xavier.

Sermon by Father Gillis

After the Mass, the Rev. F. M. Gillis, S.J., Professor of Ethics, delivered the sermon to the student body.

Beginning with the prayer, "Come Holy Ghost", Father Gillis emphasized the need of prayer and study, and said that only the Holy Ghost and the good will of men could bring the world back from its sensuous path.

"There will be reconstruction of the social order only when God's law is recognized and observed", he said, in urging all to put forth their utmost zeal in their studies for the coming year. "The culture of Christ, which the world so sadly lacks, is ours to study."

Vigilance Committee Prepares To Give Preps a Royal Welcome

The Sophomore Class announces that fourteen of their number have been appointed to officially conduct the Freshmen into the so-called inner recesses of Loyola. John Bracken is Chairman of this Vigilance Committee, assisted by the following: Harry Devlin, Charles Wayson, Harry Bremer, Albert Matricciani, Edwin Gehring, Stanley Klijanowicz, Charles Fisher, John Conner, Joseph Aaron, Herbert Reynolds, Harry Sehlhorst, Paul Kerger and Chester Bolesta.

This committee will start to function within the next few days. In order to further assist the members of the Class of '39, a set of rules has been drawn up which will be published in the near future.

Welcome

As the ninth year of publication for the Greyhound begins we extend a cordial welcome to the new faculty members and students who are by now a definite part of the picture at Evergreen. May their stay be enjoyable and the results of their labors profitable.

To the members of the class of '39, who are gradually becoming acquainted with each other, and more than gradually, perhaps, with the sophomores, we say, "Take a lively interest in as many scholastic activities as possible". In no other way will you gain as much from your collegiate life. The privilege of working and enjoying one's self in the company of fellow-students is one which is rarely appreciated until later in life. Now is the time to make the most of this splendid opportunity.

Congratulations

May we offer our congratulations to those students who were recipients of awards for meritorious work during the last scholastic year. There is still an opportunity remaining during the forthcoming year for those of you who can't imagine the feeling of strolling nonchalantly forward and claiming honors for intellectual brilliance.

Concerning Elections

We feel it our duty to say a word to the members of the various classes and campus organizations who are electing officers for the forthcoming year. Choose your officers for their personal fitness and loyalty, and for no other reasons, remembering that upon them, to a very great extent, depends the success of the bodies they serve.

Soup's On

Among the innovations which the students by this time must be very much aware of, is the change in the management of the college cafeteria. Judging by the number of times we were urged during last year to use this space in complaint of the cafeteria and its food, this subject was the pet grievance of a good many of our hungry and unsatisfied brethren. Whether the culinary concoctions and wares of the new management will be able to satisfy fully the gastronomic cravings of Loyolans remains to be seen.

As always, the proper preparation and display of appetizing foods will lure the hungry, and from personal observation and, what's more, experience, college boys greatly desire nourishment continuously. By ten o'clock in the morning, the cup-of-coffee-breakfast boys are wearing a famished look, and with something appealingly eatable in sight, the purchasing result in their case will be as inevitable as it will be later in that of others who have breakfasted more substantially.

Since we have rather admitted that we are regarded at times as a complaint department, perhaps we shall shortly be able to report that we have received commendations on the cafeteria and its food. Cafeteria-ly speaking while we are at Evergreen, let's hope we can eat and be merry, for tomorrow . . . we have to go to class again.

Stuff

I slowly open my eyes. What is this vastness in which I now find myself? The walls seem—and are—far away. Not at all like my old writing space on the left. This void is as long as the old bailiwick (Thank you Roget) but much, much, wider. I arise and stretch. I find that I can move about with ease. I was in a niche, now I am in an abyss. In the niche I could go but one way, from worse to worse. Here in the abyss, again I can go only one way, from top to bottom. Which, after all, is the best way to come down a ladder.

Notice is hereby given that the student body must be especially careful in their use of words, in their actions, and in their use of quips or other unseemly language. They must be careful with whom they are seen walking or talking; and with whom they hobnob in any way, fashion, or manner. They must speak in a low voice and glance about before giving utterance to even a sigh. Why? Because the column on the left is now being handled by none other than that haunting, searching, spying, and above all REPORTING, W. W.

With the opening of the school year came the announcement that several new courses had been added to the college curriculum, namely: Contemporaneous History and Atomic Physics (no relation to A. Tomic Ache). None of these compare, however, with the new course set forth on page 27 of the Annual Catalogue namely: Mathematics. Well, anyhow its only an elective.

Is I Got To Go To School, Ma?

*I came away to college, as happy as could be,
With the thought of open arms, set wide to welcome me;
I thought that I would surely be a college hero bold,
But Gee, you ought to see me now, what a sight to behold.

*You see, in Prep school; (Gosh, how I wish that I was back;)
I starred in football, basketball, lacrosse, and on the track,
I was president of my class and editor of the paper.
But here in college darn it all, they treat me as a faker.
(Is I Got to go to School, Ma?)*

*Oh, the Sophomores, they welcomed me and patted me on the shoulder,
And then they sold me their old books, and some a darn sight older,
They pocketed all my hard earned cash, and didn't even thank me,
And then, to top it all, they took me out—to spank me.
(Is I Got to go to School, Ma?)*

*They summoned us together near the gymnasium door,
And bade us gather bits of paper scattered on the floor;
They wielded monstrous paddles, that instilled our hearts with fear,
But when we failed to do their bidding they whacked us on the—

Our special award (a miniature gravestone engraved with the Grim Reaper couchant, and entirely enclosed in a horse-shoe) is hereby awarded to the student flier who last week joined or, according to the viewpoint, did not join the Caterpillar Club. It seems that pilot and student were peacefully flying along in their machine when the pilot suddenly signaled for "practice landings." You can well imagine the surprise on the face of the pilot when he looked back and saw the student step out into space, hurriedly pull his rip-cord and "practice landings."

Our own edition of Bitsy Grant, Chiclet Cichelli, in organizing the fall tennis tournament here at Loyola, we suspect, works on the principle that this is the year for the little man to "go places and do things." He cites Bitsy as his most notable example. Well, even Bitsy met his Wood-erloo.

Chick's Chatter

A. E. C.

Greetings, Fellows

Hello everybody, this is Chick the Chatterer, bringing to you all the dope, inside and out, (mostly out) regarding the main sports events here at Evergreen. In case you are a new-comer in this neck of the woods, let me remind you that all the "info" is coming to you through the courtesy of the Greyhound, a bi-weekly at Loyola College, to be found in the leading hotels, taverns and pool-rooms—not to mention L. C. waste baskets. You will also find that this extraordinary paper has a wide-awake sports staff, which is never late with its assignments and which is always up to the minute with news. Yeh, just a "minute" before press time, exactly one week before the paper appears on the campus. So, you see what I have to put up with! What I am about to write is news at this moment, but I'll wager that when it is read, it will be ancient literature. However, crossing my fingers, I'll chance it and hope that this year's athletic program is being made known for the first time to the students.

Intramurals To Be Extended

Ere I attempt to say anything, let me allay any hope or fear that may have surged into the heart of an upperclassman that something drastically new will be attempted. Calm yourself, friend, there will be no substantial change over last year's program. If you recall, a new system of intramural athletics was undertaken to supplant varsity football. Those intramurals met with a fair amount of success under the capable leadership of Father Jacobs and Bill Liston. In fact, the response of the students was so encouraging that the Athletic Association decided to do a little expanding for the scholastic year '35-'36. Extension of the intramural program will be the only change from the preceding year.

First of all, the Athletic Association has arranged for an open tennis tournament. This innovation will afford a double treat: primarily, to the student who has been looking forward to something like this for many years, and secondly to the courts which have been unused during the fall months. Then again, material for the tennis team may crop up in this way. Who knows, we may have another Colvin in our midst who needs just a little bit of urging. In any case, it's a good plan.

Besides this, there will be two more fall sports in which the athletic Loyola-ite can participate. One is indoor baseball, the game which broke up more than one club meeting last fall. The success of a school league in this sport is a certainty. From all indications, over half the student body will compete in the tourney.

The other sport is touch-tackle football. Herein lies a splendid opportunity for you fellows who love football to persevere in the abridged game since varsity football is temporarily abolished from the campus.

Something New

Besides regular varsity and Freshman court teams, another basket-ball league will be run this winter, and, unless I miss my guess, will be the only intramural activity during the cold weather. However, in the spring, Loyola will blossom forth with another indoor league and possibly a novel quoit or horseshoe pitching contest for the now ardent intramuralist. (Farmer Kelly, please note). In addition, the Green and Gray will be represented by two, maybe three, varsity teams. Baseball and tennis will come to the fore as in previous seasons and as usual will carry most of the interest of the students. However, if enough turn out, Loyola will see its first formal golf team sport its colors. Now if that program won't keep us busy, I'm sure I don't know what will.

FIFTY-SIX PLAYERS SEEK SINGLES TENNIS CROWN

KNIGHT SEEDED FIRST

Varsity Material Sought Among Racquetters In Field

Loyola's first annual tennis tourney promises to be a rousing success if the number of entrants is a criterion by which success is measured in such things. Exactly fifty-six hopefuls began their bids for the singles title last Friday, the Freshman class leading with twenty future Tildens.

Varsity Material Sought

The tourney, which was started with the hope of uncovering varsity material ought to find valuable timber somewhere in the group. Inasmuch as Niemoeller is the only regular back from last year, Bill Liston intends to look over the players carefully in order to "find" those remaining men.

Knight Seeded First

Jules Knight of the Senior class was seeded first in the draw, being followed by Jim McAleer, Tom Bracken and Charley Wayson in that order. Doubles pairings and seedings will be made later.

Price Colvin, '35, Becomes Municipal Tennis Champion

Also Wins In Doubles And Plays Well In Forest Hills Tournament

Price Colvin, outstanding athlete at Loyola in basketball and tennis during the past three seasons and a member of last year's graduating class, during the Summer gained added renown in local tennis circles. Colvin, displaying remarkable tennis, showed himself to be the best clay court player in the city by easily defeating Jean Hofmeister in straight sets 6-4, 6-0, 6-1 to win the municipal tennis tournament.

In addition to this title, Price gained the city doubles championship with Frank Roberts and also the mixed doubles crown with Miss Grace Parker. After making this clean sweep of city titles, Colvin went to Forest Hills for the National Singles Tournament, where he lost a close first round match to Gregory Mangin, the national indoor titleholder who in turn reached the quarter-final round.

At the close of the discourse, the speaker asked for questions from the audience, and there ensued a lively exchange of query and answer such as happens at regular guild meeting.

An interesting touch is present in the fact that both Bishop Toolen and Dr. Barrett played on the same football teams at Loyola, and both were later classmates at St. Mary's Seminary and in the Canon Law Department of the Catholic University.

There is additional interest in the anniversary, since the late Eugene F. Jendrek, Sr., father of Eugene Jendrek, editor of the Greyhound, was also a member of the class of 1905, and also played on the same football team with the Jubilarians.

Father Barrett celebrated his silver jubilee Mass at the Cathedral on Friday, September 27. His Grace, Archbishop Curley presided at the Mass, and the Rev. Ferdinand C. Wheeler, S.J., ex '05, president of Loyola High School, was deacon of the Mass, and the Rev. W. Paul Smith, ex '05, pastor of St. Paul's Catholic Church, subdeacon. Both Father Wheeler and Father Smith were classmates of the Jubilarians at Loyola.

Educational Leader

Father Barrett is well-known as an educational leader, being appointed to the post of Archdiocesan Superintendent of Schools in 1922. In 1928 Father Barrett was officially appointed pastor of St. John the Evangelist Church. He will celebrate a second jubilee Mass at St. John's on October 13.

Another alumnus of Loyola who is personally interested in the anniversary is the Rev. William A. Toolen, '87, brother of Bishop Toolen, and also pastor of St. Edward's Church.

When asked to discuss the marks of an educated man a Soph replied that they all must have been above ninety-five, and hence really didn't need discussing.
